

MAKES GAS, HE SAYS, AT 5 CENTS PER 1,000 FEET

Inventor Bradley Declares His Machines Are Used Everywhere. HE WORKS AS JANITOR. Is Haled to Court for Interrupting Church Service to Air Grievance with Lawyer.

Harry A. Bradley, an inventor, who says he is compelled to earn a living as a janitor while men are being enriched by his genius, told a remarkable story in the Harlem Police Court today when arraigned for disturbing the service in the Church of the Puritans, Fifth avenue and One Hundred and Thirtieth street.

Incidentally, Bradley shed some light on gas making. His invention, he said, was being used by every gas company in America, and enabled them to make gas for five cents a thousand.

Bradley was arraigned on the complaint of George Lay, of No. 237 Fifth avenue, who alleged that on last Sunday morning, Bradley spoke in the Church of the Puritans at the close of the benediction and said to the congregation:

"I would specially request the congregation to examine my books and see how I have been treated by Mr. Lay, a member of this church."

Bradley was hustled out of the church before he had time to go into particulars, and Lay, who says he has been greatly annoyed by Bradley, obtained a summons for his appearance in court.

Lay, who is a member of the church, said that he had been treated by Bradley as a lawyer some years ago, and that he had been treated by Bradley as a lawyer some years ago, and that he had been treated by Bradley as a lawyer some years ago.

"What did you do with the money you received for me from the Consolidated Gas Co. and the Fulton Municipal Gas Co.," of Brooklyn," asked Bradley.

"The money was properly deposited in the books will show," said Lay. "You know no money was ever withdrawn without your signature to the checks.

"I don't charge him with stealing," said Bradley, "but I would like to know where the money is. Here I am working at a janitor's job and many men have been made rich by my invention."

"Now, Bradley, I know you," said Magistrate Crane, "and I know Mr. Lay. And I know that you have been making gas for five cents a thousand for some time. You must not annoy him any more. I know you have a hard time of it, and that you have been unfortunate in failing in with dishonest business men. But I am not going to let you go on with you. I cannot send you to jail. That would not be right. But I must compel you to report to the probation officer and promise not to annoy Mr. Lay any more."

"But what am I to do?" said Bradley. "He says he parted with me ten years ago, and my books will show that four years ago he was employed by me. I never knew a day's misery until I got my machine going. I was making $5 a week then as a janitor. And now I am a poor janitor and these other fellows are rich off of my machine. He is sixty years old. He says his invention is a machine which makes gas for five cents a thousand. And some other gas companies are making gas for five cents."

Bradley showed letters of recommendation among the letters of recommendation of the newly elected justices of the Supreme Court. It was addressed to Messrs. A. R. and W. P. Hamblen, Houston, Tex. It stated that Bradley had been great of my machine. His friends and spoke highly of his invention.

But, owing to the large gas trust in this section of the country," said the letter, "there did not seem to be any opportunity to be of service to him."

WANTS TO MODIFY SHIP SUBSIDY BILL.

Congressman Grosvenor Proposes to Limit Right to Oriental and South American Lines.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—A modification of the Gallinger ship subsidy bill was suggested by Chairman Grosvenor at today's meeting of the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

He expressed a willingness to strike out subsidies for trans-Atlantic and African steamship lines, thus confining the Government aid to Oriental and South American lines.

No vote was taken but Mr. Grosvenor will prepare a revised bill for the consideration of the committee. In his changed form the Gallinger bill, which already has passed the Senate, will conform to the ship subsidy recommendation made by Secretary Root in his Kansas City speech.

HELD FOR A $2,000 THEFT AT WALDORF

Reward Trap Catches Bellboy and Chum and Gems Stolen from Guest Are Recovered.

Mrs. Gailie K. Van Wyck, a wealthy widow of Chicago, spending the winter at the Waldorf-Astoria, lost a package containing five diamond brooches valued at $2,000 on Nov. 18. The jewels, she thought, disappeared after she had left them in her room. The hotel people made vain efforts to trace them.

Finally the matter was put in the hands of House Detective Thornhill and Detective Sergeant Flood, of the District-Attorney's staff. These inserted an advertisement in the papers, signed by Thornhill, saying a reward of $200 would be paid for information leading to the recovery of the gems, and persons knowing anything about them were to call at No. 4 Wall street, where Van Wyck's lawyer has his offices.

Every time a person came to the office looking for something, the jewels were found. Thornhill, who would hurry to look the callers over. Not until today were there any tangible results.

Two young men calling themselves Frank Smith, a plumber, and John Quinlan, a clerk, both of No. 22 East Seventy-fourth street, arrived at No. 4 Wall street and announced that they could tell where Mrs. Van Wyck's five brooches had been secreted. As soon as he saw Quinlan he recognized him as a bellboy at the Waldorf-Astoria. He arrested them both and the two, who are roommates, made a confession. They told him the jewels were secreted in a hole in the gas character in their bedroom. Thornhill went to the house in East Seventy-fourth street and found the loot where the couple had told him it would be.

In the Centre Street Court, at the request of Assistant District-Attorney Kroetz, Smith and Quinlan were held in bonds of $1,500 each for examination Monday.

SCORES OVERCOME IN TENEMENT FIRE

Twenty-four Families Driven from Homes by Fierce Blaze in Jersey City.

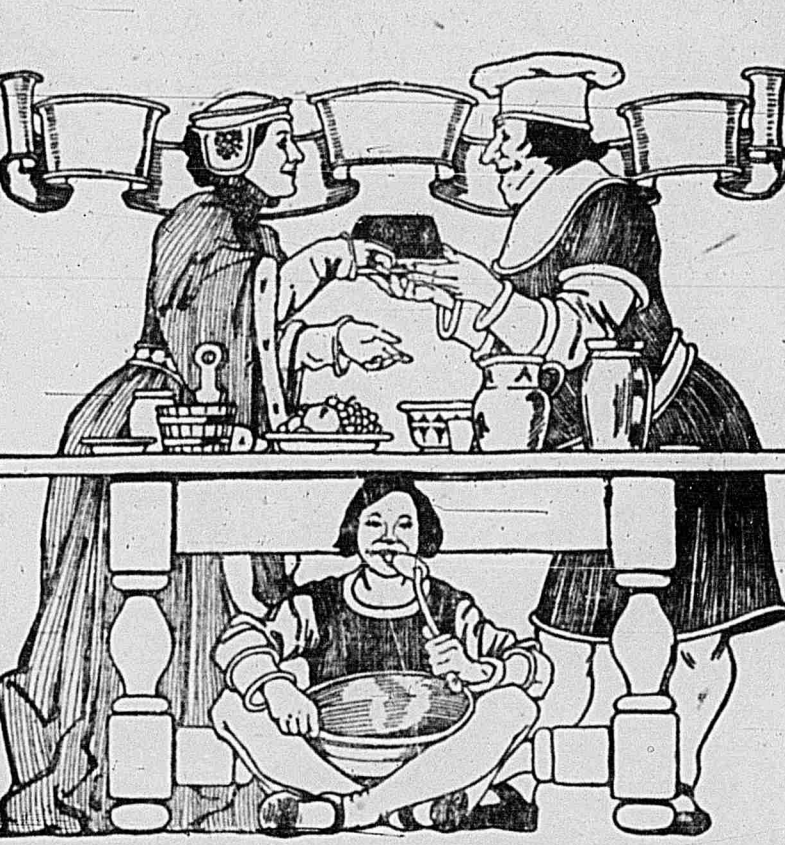

Twenty-four families were made homeless by a fire in three flats, Nos. 445-7-9 Pavonia avenue, Jersey City, at midnight, and fully a score of women and children were overcome by smoke.

The fire started on the top floor of No. 445. Lawrence Regan rushed down to alarm other tenants and call engines. When he returned he could not enter the house because of the smoke. When the fire was over, policemen and firemen found Regan's wife and three little children in the first floor hall, unconscious from smoke. They were removed to the City Hospital.

Policeman Boylan ran into No. 447 to take out women and children and was overcome by smoke. Firemen came across him and carried him to the street.

Mrs. Herbert Harb, living on the third floor of No. 445, carried her four children to the fire-escape and all were rescued on ladders by firemen. Mrs. Mary Thompson, of No. 445, was rescued by citizens when she was overcome by smoke. Mrs. Frank Morgan and her three children, in the same house, were overcome by smoke, and were carried down fire ladders.

Richardson and Robbins Plum Pudding

HARK Ye! Old English Plum Pudding as made by Richardson and Robbins from the original receipt is just like good old fashioned home-made English Plum Pudding: just as pure—just as toothsome—only it saves you all the fussing and entirely eliminates any possibility of disappointment.

You've never had Plum Pudding till you've had it right. Put up exclusively by Richardson & Robbins. (Ask anybody from Delaware.) Comes in one, two, three and four pound sanitary tins. Steam hot, open with a key and turn out on a warm plate. Your grocer has it or can get it. Look for the label—R. & R.

Fine Gold Jewelry

What we mean to imply by "fine" is this: The designs are new and of a character such as you would expect to find in the most exclusive shops (at materially greater prices). The jewelry is wrought by goldsmiths rather than manufactured in the provinces.

Since our jewelry shop has been made twice greater than ever, we have found it possible to present a most exhaustive collection of the new pieces, set with diamonds, pearls, rubies and other precious stones.
